MRS. JOSEPH PULITZER DIES OF INJURIES RECEIVED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Wound Suffered in New York, Thought at First to Be of Slight Importance, Caused
Blood Clot Which Passed Into Brain

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 14.—Mrs.
Joseph Pulitzer of St. Louis, wife of the editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, died at 8:30 o'clock last night in the Manhattan Eye, Ear
and Throat Hospital, 210 East Sixty-fourth street, after suffering seemingly superficial injuries in a slight automobile accident Thursday night. A blood transfusion was resorted to earlier in the evening but she failed to rally.
Her husband, who is also secretary of the Press Publishing Co.,
publishers of the New York World,
was located last yesterday afternoon on the fishing boat in which he left Miami, Fla., Wednesday,
for a short vacation.

It was decided, after Mr. Pulitzer had telephoned from Florida to his relatives in New York, that he would return directly to St. Louis, and that the body of Mrs. Pulitzer would be taken West this evening
in the private car "Manhattan,"
leaving the Pennsylvania station at 6:05. Ralph and Herbert Pulitzer and Mrs. Julius Walsh, who will accompany the funeral car to St.
Louis, the train should reach St.
Louis at 4:05 p. m. Sunday. Other arrangements for the interment had not been completed today.

Another Auto Took Road.
Mrs. Pulitzer arrived here Thursday afternoon from St. Louis, intending to spend a week shopping.
She went at once to 7 East Seventy-third street, the home of her widowed mother-in-law, who is now in Europe.

That evening she went out to dinner with friends. After dancing for some time she started home between 11 and 12 o'clock with College McMurtry of 635 Park avenue, who with his wife is an old friend of the Pulitzers. McMurtry was driving his car alone. Third avenue between Sixty-sixth and Sixty-seventh streets when he met
a southbound automobile "hogging"
the space inside the "L" pillars
where both cars were moving.

Mr. McMurtry swore to avoid a collision and the bumper on his car struck the pillar. Owing to his moderate speed the automobile did not overturn, but the windshield
was shattered and both occupants
were thrown with broken glass. Mrs.
Pulitzer suffering cuts on her throat and at the base of her nose.
McMurtry's head was thrown forward on the steering wheel by the sudden shock and his upper lip
laid open.

McMurtry and Mrs. Pulitzer hired a taxicab and went to the office of the McMurtry family physician, Dr. Albert H. Ely, of 116
East Fifty-eighth street. Dr. Ely was called from his home and dressed the wounds of both. Mc-Murtry meanwhile had telephoned
Mrs. Julius Walsh, a friend of Mrs.
Pulitzer, at her home in the Plaza
Hotel, and at her suggestion Dr.
Ely accompanied Mrs. Pulitzer
there, settling her comfortably for the night. Mrs. Pulitzer was inclined to laugh at even these measures, insisting she was "only scratched."

Yesterday morning Dr. Ely

found his patient suffering from severe congestion of the nose, and while still not alarmed at her condition, suggested that she be removed to a hospital where proper facilities could be had for her treatment.

Mrs. Pulitzer grew faint on the way to the Eye, Ear and Throat
Hospital and became unconscious
at 11 o'clock, shortly after admission there. Drs. Joseph Blake and Samuel Lambert, surgeons; Foster
Kennedy, neurologist, and John D. Richards, staff specialist of the hospital, were hurriedly called in consultation by Dr. Ely and X-ray photographs were made to determine whether Mrs. Pulitzer had received a skull fracture. The X-rays revealed nothing. The doctors could find no indication of a cerebral hemorrhage and were frankly at a loss to explain the gradual ebbing of Mrs. Pulitzer's strength. Transfusion of blood was resorted to in hope she might be kept alive until the real source of the trouble had been located, all those in consultation feeling confident that the amount of blood lost
by her in the accident could not prove fatal.

Blood Clot Passed Into Brain.
Dr. Blake issued a bulletin at 8 o'clock, which was sent to Mr.
Pulitzer in Florida, saying that a blood vessel in Mrs. Pulitzer's neck
had been injured, forming a clot
which passed into the brain, rendering her unconscious. To this he attributed the end, which came a half hour later.

With her at the time of her death were her brothers-in-law,
Ralph Pulitzer, president of the Press Publishing Co., and Herbert Pulitzer and Mrs. Walsh, who had been constantly at her side since Thursday night.

Mrs. Pulitzer's sister, Mrs. Charles
Moore, was summoned from St.
Louis, and started at once for New York, but when she learned of the funeral plans, turned back at Indianapolis and returned to St.
Louis. Some difficulty was experienced in locating Mr. Pulitzer in the fishing boat on which he had left Miami for a fishing camp at Long Key. Airplanes were ordered out from the Government station
at Miami to find him, but a launch that put out from Miami succeeded and brought him back to the mainland.

Mr. Pulitzer Fishing Off Florida
Coast When Told of Accident.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MIAMI, Fla., March 14.—Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, out at sea fishing when the news of his wife's injury and death reached Miami,
was finally located yesterday afternoon near Long Key. He was found after extensive search
by airplane and radio.

With Mr. Pulitzer were Clark
McAdams, of the Post-Dispatch,
and Walter Adams, also of St.
Louis. They are returning with him and will reach St. Louis Monday morning.

"Many agencies co-operated in the search by airplane and surface craft for Mr. Pulitzer, including the staff of the Associated Press, the staff and wire service of the United Press and the personal efforts of the staffs of the Miami
News, Miami Herald, and the Miami Tab; the Florida East Coast
chief railway dispatcher also assisted."

WARREN TO BE NAMED, EVEN IF NOT CONFIRMED

Recess Appointment Decided On by President, in Event Senate Again Rejects Nomination.

STATEMENT ISSUED
AT WHITE HOUSE

Coolidge Still Making Every Effort to Bring About Favorable Action on His Choice.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Announcement was made today at the White House that President Coolidge would offer Charles B. Warren of Michigan a recess appointment as Attorney-General if his nomination for the post should again fail of confirmation by the Senate.

The following statement was issued by Secretary Sanders on behalf of the President:
"Notwithstanding various reports
and rumors, the President is making every possible effort to secure the confirmation of Mr. Warren.
As the time is very short and to accommodate the Senate, he has consulted certain men and certain Senators as to what course should be pursued in case Mr. Warren is not confirmed.

"He has decided on no other appointment. He will offer him a recess appointment. He hopes, however, that the unbroken practice of three generations of permitting the President to choose his own Cabinet
will not be changed and that the opposition to Mr. Warren upon further consideration will be withdrawn in order that the country
may have the benefit of his excellent qualities and the President
may be untroubled in choosing
his own method of executing the laws."

Conference at White House.

A movement to delay a vote until Monday was initiated immediately
after Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader, had returned from a mid-day conference with the executive at the White House. Some leaders of the opposition agreed to have the matter go over, but Senator Walsh (Dem.) of Montana, insisted that there be a roll call at today's session.

As soon as the Warren nomination came up, Senator Pepper (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, began speaking in defense of the nomination.

The leaders still were uncertain
whether a vote would be reached today.

Adverse Report Presented.
Before Pepper began his address,
Walsh presented the majority report of the Judiciary Committee,
which contended that the President
has exceeded his constitutional authority in re-submitting the nomination of Warren to the same session of the Senate at which it had been rejected.

"Even though the constitutional authority existed and the rules did not forbid," the report said, "it would be in the last degree unseemly in the absence of any showing from any quarter for the Senate at the mere request of the President of the United States to reverse its action in such a matter."

"The power of his great office is said to be in excess of that enjoyed by any constitutional monarch."

"The wisest and most patriotic
among the founders of the Government and the framers of our Constitution harbored anxieties about intrusting him with the power to appoint all Federal officials and dreaded the influence it would permit him to exercise over the action of either or both houses of Congress. The distribution of what has come to be called patronage was reluctantly placed in his hands because no safer or more practicable
method could be devised."

"The peril of permitting him again and again to endeavor to impose upon the people a nominee unacceptable to the Senate, particularly in a case in which, as in the present instance, the vote taken upon the nomination is close, need not be enlarged upon. It is the opinion of the committee that the nomination should be promptly rejected."

Pepper Defends Warren.
Pepper paid high tribute to Warren, outlining his career and reading numerous telegrams from lawyers and bar associations attesting his fitness for the Cabinet appointment.

Asserting that the Michigan Legislature had endorsed Warren's nomination, the Pennsylvania Senator said great weight should be attached to the fact that he had been chosen by the Michigan Legislature.

MILLER BACKERS WIN $500,000 ON MAYORALTY RACE

They Bet $2 Against $5 That
He Would Be Republican Nominee.

Tom Kearney, a well-known betting commissioner, today said that St. Louisans, who had wagered on Victor J. Miller to win the Republican nomination for Mayor, had won in the neighborhood of $500,000. He said his information led him to believe the figure was not excessive.

Miller supporters, enthusiastic
from the start of the campaign,
began by laying wagers on the basis of $1 that Miller would win against $3 that he would not. Later the odds tightened to $2 against $5
and at noon yesterday, when wagers virtually ceased, the odds
on Miller had shortened to $2 against $3. Kearney estimated that $200,000 was bet on Miller at average odds of 2 against 5.
Louis P. Aloe began as a heavy favorite, but gradually dropped until he finally was the same risk as Miller, $2 to $1.

The final bets placed on former Circuit Judge J. Hugo Grimm were $4 against $1 that he would not win and even money that he would not finish second.

PAID $635 TAX ON $1635

"It Seems Hard to Pay All Above $1000," Wrote Colorado Farmer.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., March 14.—A single man living in a Colorado rural district, earned $1635 last year
and sent $635 of that amount to
E. W. Howbert, Internal Revenue Collector in Denver, to pay his income tax.

What the income taxpayer
should have sent to Howbert was a check for a sum slightly more than $9 to pay the required tax on his earnings above $1000. How-bert will return $626. "It seems pretty hard," the taxpayer wrote to Howbert, "that a man should have to give every penny to the Government that he earns above $1000 a year, but I guess I'll have to do it."

SHAMROCKS TO BE DELIVERED

New Ruling Releases 1000 Packages of Shamrocks to Boston.

BOSTON, March 14.—Packages
of shamrocks from the audit sud-

of which was held up as a result of a Postoffice Department ruling
that they were not for the post.
New instructions from the Department of Agriculture in Washington will permit delivery.

The shamrocks had been ordered held under the quarantine regarding importations of living plants unless they are certified
free from plant pests and disease.

examined a lot of baggage, but did not find the coat. With the coat
also went diamonds valued at $850
which had been left in a pocket.

MILLER BEATS REPUBLICAN CITY MACHINE AND ROUTS KOELN TO WIN BY 13,000

The Nominees for Mayor

VICTOR J. MILLER

WILLIAM L. IGOE

174,782 VOTED
IN THE HEAVIEST
PRIMARY HERE

W. L. Igoe Wins the Democratic Nomination With Total of 38,243 to 1351
for Byrnes.

ALOE SECOND IN
THE G. O. P. CONTEST

The Three Leaders Among Republicans Finished,
Miller 57,575, Aloe 44,
510, and Grimm, 27,514.

Victor J. Miller, former president of the Police Board, turned organization politics inside out in the heaviest primary
of the city's history yesterday,
when he smashed the Republican City Committee machine and also brushed aside the power of Collector Koeln to win the Republican mayoralty nomination by a plurality of 13,065. He received a total vote of 57,575.

Aloe Second in Race.

Louis P. Aloe, former president of the Board of Aldermen, who had a majority of the committee support, was second in the Republican mayoralty race with 44,510, and former Circuit Judge J. Hugo Grimm, backed by Koeln, was third with 27,514 votes. Circuit
Judge Robert W. Hall polled 227 votes and George E. Dieckman, 784.
Republican politicians hardly had time to recover from the nomination of Miller before the 39,594 votes of former Congressman William L. Igoe, in winning the Democratic nomination for Mayor by a 38,243 plurality, indicated to them
that a flaw loomed in their 16-year
title to the City Hall. James W.
Byrnes, Democratic nominee four years ago, who was second in the Democratic primary vote of four years ago, polled only 1351 votes. P. J. Cayanough received 177.

A vote that exceeded all estimates was polled, despite the handicap of a drab day, punctuated with intermittent showers. The total vote was 174,782, 57 per cent
of the registration of 298,901.
It exceeded the highest estimates
made prior to the primary.

The Republican primary polled 132,640 votes and the Democratic 41,122. This exceeded the Republican primary vote of four years ago by 3600 and the Democratic vote by 18,000.

Igoe and Miller on Monday will begin a three-weeks' campaign for election, which will be held April 7.

Democrats Frankly Pleased.

Democrats were frankly pleased with the outcome of the primary.
The strong following which Igoe's vote indicated he had in every section of the city, heightened their belief that he can defeat Miller in the election. They pointed to the fact that Igoe led all candidates in the Third, Fourth, Eleventh and Twentieth Wards, as an indication of his strength. He ran second to Miller in some of the West End wards and second to Aloe in some of the downtown wards, eight in
all. Before the primary Democrats had designated Miller as the Republican candidate they would like to see nominated, as they believed either Grimm or Aloe would have been stronger in the election.

Note Not Opposed.

G. A. Hoehn, unopposed for the Socialist nomination for Mayor, is the third candidate. There was no opposition in either party for Controller and Louis Nott, Republican incumbent; Eugene J.
Sartorius, Democrat, and George Tourville, Socialist, are the nominees.

Two Republican members of the Board of Aldermen, Martin D.
Lohmann in the Ninth Ward and Joseph H. Heckel in the Thirteenth
Ward—failed of renomination.
Eleven other incumbents were renominated. There was no incumbent in the Fifteenth Ward, which formerly was represented by Harry

NO DEMOCRATIC CONTESTS FOR POSTS

Republicans Name Harry P. Riefeling for Vacancy in 15th Caused by Death of H. W. Uhlemeyer.

Eleven out of 13 incumbents on the Board of Aldermen were re-nominated in yesterday's primary, at which candidates for the 14 odd-numbered wards were chosen. The Democrats had only one candidate in each ward and the Socialists had unopposed candidates in seven wards, including one woman.

The entire city votes for Aldermen, but they represent the wards in which they reside. There were 51 Republicans seeking the 14 places. Alderman Martin D. Lohmann of the Ninth Ward and Alderman Joseph H. Heckel of the Thirteenth Ward were defeated. The nominees in their places are, respectively, Harry P. Riefeling and John Neu Jr. The third candidate chosen on the Republican aldermanic ticket who is not already a member of the board, is Harry P. Riefeling, Fifteenth Ward, where there is a vacancy due to the death of Harry W. Uhlemeyer.

In the past, Republican nominations for city offices usually have been equivalent to election, though four years ago the Democratic nominee for Mayor gave Harry W. Kiel a hard fight and this situation may be repeated this time.

The Aldermen Renominated: Aldermen renominated are: Edward L. Kuhn, First Ward; William F. Niederluecke, Third; Edward W. Wiehe, Fifth; Henry Wagner, Seventh; John A. Fett, Eleventh; Thomas S. Watts, Seventeenth; A. H. Niederluecke, Nineteenth; William J. Studt, Twenty-first; Clinton E. Udell, Twenty-third; Sylvester A. Nangle, Twenty-fifth.

R. L. Wimer, Twenty-seventh. All of the Aldermen renominated carried their own wards by good pluralities except Wander and Udell. Koettler carried his ward, but Neu and Riefeling did not carry theirs. The machine was backing all the incumbents who sought re-election except Wander, Lohmann, Heckel and Udell, but independent strength carried Wander and Udell over.

Koettler, successful in the Ninth Ward, had the machine backing. He is a Deputy Sheriff and cashier in the Sheriff's office. Alderman Heckel had supported the Koeln choice for committeeman in his ward, the Thirteenth, and thereby incurred the enmity of John Schmoll and the machine, which supported Edward E. Schoening.

Neu is an Attorney. Neu, nominated in the Thirteenth, is an attorney with offices in the Fifth Courthouse building. In his own ward he ran behind all his opponents, the vote being: Schoenig, 2712; Heckel, 2487; Herman Krah, 1439; Neu, 1101.

There was a free-for-all in the Fifteenth Ward, but the winner, Riefeling, who is a Ford automobile dealer, had the machine support, gaining a lead of about 9000 over his nearest opponent, Arthur Kramer, who, however, carried the home ward, with 210 votes more than Riefeling. There were five other candidates.

Two other wards, the Seventeenth and Twenty-third, also had seven candidates each. In the Seventeenth Alderman Watts was re-nominated with 10,000 votes more than his closest competitor, William M. Runge, a city building inspector.

Udell Has Close Call. John M. Casey, supported by Committeeman William Maffitt Bates and the Aloe wing of the party in the Twenty-third, gave Alderman Udell a stiff fight to gain renomination, the total vote being: Udell, 24,728, and Casey, 26,139. Casey carried the home ward, with Deputy Sheriff Adam Hoerner second and Udell third. Hoerner was supported by Mrs. George W. Gallan, negro committeewoman, who was for Grimm, but the Municipal Betterment League, working for Grimm, featured Udell on its slate.

Alderman Wander, though re-nominated, did not carry his own ward, the Seventh, this going to Edward J. Courial. Alderman Kuhn, renominated in the First Ward, has worked in close harmony with Comptroller Nolte, who is strong politically. Alderman A. H. Niederluecke, renominated in the Nineteenth, has been close to Mayor Kiel. Alderman Wimer, renominated in the Twenty-seventh, is a leader in the movement for rapid transit.

In some instances the Municipal Betterment League slate coincided with the machine slate, but a number of Grimm supporters among aldermanic candidates were defeated.

MILLER SMASHES THE REPUBLICAN MACHINE AND WINS BY 13,000

Continued from Page One. W. Uhlemeyer, who died recently. Harry P. Riefeling received the Republican nomination for this place. Organization politicians rallied after the returns began to indicate they would support the nominee. It was one of the bitterest doses of political medicine ever meted out to the practical politicians who have backed successful candidates in the past.

Chairman Becker's Comment. Louis J. Becker, chairman of the Republican City Central committee, today, according to Miller's nomination to the fact that "between 15,000 and 18,000 Democrats and 'independents' voted in the Republican primary. 'We will support our nominee,' he said 'and I hope the independents and Democrats will stay with him.'

City Collector Koeln, chief backer of Judge Grimm for the nomination, and Mayor Kiel, also pledged their support to the nominee. "I am a Republican and will support the nominee of the party," asserted Koeln. "Believe Judge Grimm was the best candidate in the primary race, and I am glad I supported him."

"The people have spoken," said Mayor Kiel. "I am a good Republican and am for him."

Miller carried 15 of the 28 wards; Aloe 12, and Grimm only one, the Twelfth, home ward of Koeln, which went for Grimm by 756.

The 12 wards Aloe carried were "delivering" wards, for the most part, where the committeemen supporting him turned out the vote. These included such wards with large negro populations as the Fifth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-third.

The pluralities Aloe received in his wards were too small to withstand the landslide that struck West. Miller had carried 18 wards in his unsuccessful race for the gubernatorial nomination last August, but they gave him a plurality of only 3000 on that occasion.

Miller's Campaign Intensive. Miller's nomination is the result of a high-powered campaign for organization. When the gubernatorial primary vote showed a plurality for him, he and his friends began immediately to prepare for the mayoralty campaign. They turned to the churches, to women's organizations and fraternal organizations. Miller spoke at hundreds of meetings, always emphasizing "law enforcement."

When the primary reached the stage where candidates were filing for office, Miller's supporters, including the active and passive machine, he had surrounded himself, continued to exact pledges from voters and remind those who had previously pledged that they must stand firm. When the Republican organization prepared for the onslaught, the Miller ranks stood firm.

Analysis of Vote. An analysis of the vote shows Aloe began at the river, in the Fourth, Fifth and Seventh wards, and worked through the center of the city through the Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth wards. He veered to the north to take the Second Ward by a narrow margin of 132 votes.

Miller began at the far north with the First Ward, skipped to the Third, which he carried by only 253 votes, and then hurried over the Aloe strength in the center of the city to the South Side. There, in the solid center of Republican strength, he carried the Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Twenty-fourth wards. He came around through the west and dipped back into the north central and west to carry the Twenty-first and Twenty-second wards.

Aloe carried every one of the so-called "delivering" wards, except the Twelfth, which is so named only usually swings it with him.

IGOE TO MAKE PLEA ON NON-PARTISAN LINES

Miller Gratified at Victory—Statements of Defeated Mayoralty Candidates.

William L. Igoe, Democratic nominee for Mayor, in a statement issued today, "now asks and welcomes the support of voters of all parties." His statement follows:

"My nomination as Democratic candidate for Mayor in a primary election free from all bitterness and rancor gratifies me more than I can easily express and fills me with a sense of deep gratitude to all those who supported me.

"It is my intention to discuss during the present campaign only the issues which are implied in the problems of our municipal government and in the plans and policies proposed for their solution. I am resolved to shut out personalities and narrow partisanship. When it is necessary for me to discuss the Republican candidate, I shall discuss him only in his character of proponent or advocate of policies and programs, and not as an individual.

"I have no panacea for the immediate and permanent cure of all the city's ills, but I have the sincere purpose, and I now give my solemn promise to devote my time, my efforts and my best abilities to remove or remedy them, if I am elected. I have a very strong conviction that many of the most serious and inoperative of our municipal difficulties and controversies can be satisfactorily adjusted if the Mayor approaches them without pledges or commitments that make of him an advocate either the champion or the antagonist of particular solutions. I shall enter the mayoralty without any such pledges or commitments to any interest, group or individual. My appeal is to the people as a whole, and my obligation, if I am elected, will be to the people as a whole.

"It is my purpose, further, to be plain and unequivocal in dealing with the issues of this campaign. If I have a policy or program with reference to a given problem, I shall state and explain it frankly and fully. If I have no such policy, or program because the problem is merely contingent, or in need of expert study, I shall state that fact also.

Offers Signal Opportunity. "The office of Mayor of St. Louis imposes upon its occupant many grave duties and burdensome responsibilities. But it offers to him also a signal opportunity for service to nearly 1,000,000 people and to confer an honor which can come to only a few men in any one generation. It was to have that opportunity to serve with public approval and to obtain that reward for service that I have become a candidate.

"I now ask and shall welcome the support of voters of all parties, with the determination, if I am elected, to serve them all, as I have heretofore in other official positions, without respect to their race, creed, or political connections."

Vote of Confidence, Says Miller. Victor J. Miller, Republican nominee for Mayor, issued this statement to appreciate beyond verbal or written expression the vote of confidence given me by the citizens of St. Louis.

"I shall use every energy I have or can summon to make myself worthy of this confidence."

Aloe "Happy" in Defeat. Commenting upon his defeat, Louis P. Aloe, the favorite in the betting, said:

"The result is, of course, disappointing. I felt that I deserved to win, not because of my superior honesty or native ability over other candidates, but because I have made a longer and more intensive practical study of St. Louis problems than any of my opponents."

"To all my friends, and especially to the Citizens' Committee of 250, I offer my deep gratitude, not only for the high confidence that he bestowed on me, but for the unshakable loyalty with which they supported me. I am happy that I am not conscious of having said or done anything which could alter their esteem for me. I have done the best I knew how, without doing or allowing anything to be done in which anything could feel ashamed."

"I shall, as a private citizen, in the future as in the past, continue to do whatever I can for advancement of my native city if my services are needed or desired."

Grimm Will Practice Law. J. Hugo Grimm, who, after 16 years as a Circuit Judge, resigned from the bench to make the race for the Republican nomination, gave out the following statement:

"I am very grateful to my friends who so liberally supported me, and should like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude publicly. I have been asked if I am going to support Mr. Miller. You can say that I expect to vote for him, and if I can help him otherwise I expect to do so. I do not want to be put in the position of a sorehead."

"I got in the campaign too late—in fact, all the campaign I could do had to be compressed into two weeks, because it took me another week to wind up my judicial business. As to what I will do in the future I don't know. But I will probably enter the practice of law, individually."

Dieckmann to Work for Miller. When early returns indicated George E. Dieckmann was making a poor showing in the Republican race, he said: "I am withdrawing gracefully from the race. Before the primary I pledged myself to work harder for the successful candidate."

Four Mayoralty Candidates Carried Their Home Precincts. Four mayoralty candidates were not without honor in their own precincts yesterday and two of them were Victor J. Miller and William L. Igoe, Republican and Democratic nominees, respectively.

Miller carried his precinct, the Seventeenth of the Twenty-eighth Ward, by 152 votes to 132 for Aloe. Igoe received 131 to 4 for James W. Byrnes in his precinct, the seventeenth of the Twenty-second, and also carried Byrnes' own precinct, the twelfth of the Seventeenth Ward, 91 to 15.

NAT GOLDSTEIN QUILTS

G. O. P. COMMITTEE

Nineteenth Ward Leader for 20 Years Not "Sore but Just Tired."

Nat Goldstein, for years a power in St. Louis Republican politics and a member of the Republican Central Committee since 1904, today sent a letter of resignation to that body.

"But understand, I'm not sore," he told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "And I am for Miller for Mayor against the world."

His resignation, Goldstein stated, had no connection with the defeat of Alois, who was active supported by Goldstein.

"I've been in the harness a long time," Goldstein continued. "I on the city committee back in 1904 so long ago I can't recall what the number was, though now I know it has been for many years, in the Nineteenth Ward. I am 65 years old, and need all my energy in my business."

Goldstein is now in the insurance business. He was for many years deputy circuit clerk under the late Charles R. Graves, and became circuit clerk by appointment after Graves' death in 1916. He filled the remaining two years of Graves' term and in 1918 was elected to the four-year term. He did not seek re-election.

At the Republican national convention in Chicago, in 1920, Goldstein was a supporter of former Gov. Lowden of Illinois for President, but his support and that of Bobby Moore, also a delegate, were repudiated by Lowden when it was disclosed that each received $250 in the distribution of a Missouri Lowden campaign fund of $38,500.

Goldstein and Moore, through the association, became widely known as the "Gold Dust Twins."

Fred Emert Agrees to Reimburse Woodmen Lodge for $50,000 Purchase of Spurious Securities.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. ROCK ISLAND, Ill., March 14.—Fred Emert, president of Fred Emert & Co., bond brokers with offices in the Liberty-Central Building, St. Louis, appeared before officers of the Modern Woodmen of America here yesterday afternoon and proposed fully to reimburse the organization for the $50,000 worth of spurious Christian County (Ill.) school district bonds sold to it by his firm.

Emert's proposition was accepted. Negotiations are under way with Stern Bros. & Co., Kansas City bond dealers, for a settlement of the $100,000 of spurious bonds sold by that firm to the Woodmen.

Lodge Not to Lose. Emert, C. E. Keplinger, vice president, and Benjamin H. Charles, attorney for Emert's firm, conferred for four and a half hours with Woodmen officers at the head offices of the society here. At its conclusion, the following statement was issued:

"The entire loss involved in the forged and sale of $150,000 worth of Christian County (Ill.) school bonds by Benjamin H. White of Chicago has been assumed by the two bond houses which originally purchased them from White, and later sold them to the Modern Woodmen of America."

"Head officers of the Modern Woodmen naturally are glad to be able to assure the membership that the society will not lose a dollar by these transactions. The action of the bond houses today rebounds upon the firm and the school board which sold the bonds. They have justified the implicit confidence we always have placed in them. This society has purchased $30,000,000 worth of securities in the last few years without losing a cent."

Emert explains. Leaving the heads of the Woodmen after the conference Emert said:

"In making my proposal to settle with the Modern Woodmen at 100 cents on the dollar in connection with the Christian County school bond fraud that had been perpetrated upon my firm and the school board, I did not consider our legal liability, but recognized that we faced a moral responsibility to reimburse the organization for the full amount of worthless bonds purchased from us, aggregating $50,000. Naturally the proposal was promptly accepted, and now negotiations are in progress with Stern & Co. over details of a similar settlement, with every indication that one that is satisfactory to all interests will be effected in the next few days."

SHEPHERD HELD

UNTIL WEDNESDAY

BY AGREEMENT

State's Attorney Crowe Will Continue Investigation of McClintock Heir.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 14.—William D. Shepherd will remain in the technical custody of the State's Attorney until 2 p. m. Wednesday while State's Attorney R. E. Crowe continues his investigation of the death of William N. McClintock, rich orphan, and foster son of Shepherd, whose heir Shepherd is by a will now being contested.

By agreement of Edwin Hedrick, Shepherd's counsel, and the State's Attorney, hearing on a writ of habeas corpus in Shepherd's behalf was continued until that time.

Shepherd was taken into custody early today on a fourth writ subpoena issued from the State's Attorney's office.

Hedrick argued that there was no law justifying such a writ and that the State's Attorney was holding Shepherd in violation of his rights in hopes that he could browbeat him into a confession.

"If the State's Attorney has enough evidence to warrant taking it before the grand jury, let him swear out a murder warrant right here and continue to hold him in violation of his rights by trying to break his constitution, his will and his spirit," said Hedrick to Judge Hopkins.

Shepherd denied the statements of Dr. C. C. Falman that he had studied bacteriology in the doctor's school at $50 for a letter of inquiry of a letter regarding the course, or had stolen three test tubes of typhoid bacilli.

Questioned for 36 Hours. Dr. Falman, who also was held for further questioning and who testified for 36 hours of his steady examination before he told his story, said Shepherd had posed as a lawyer seeking information on germs in defense of a client accused of administering them. Later, Shepherd gave him $50 for a letter of inquiry of a letter regarding the course, or had stolen three test tubes of typhoid bacilli.

Beyond asking if he had a warrant, Shepherd offered no resistance to detectives who went to his home. Mrs. Shepherd became hysterical and declared "this is persecution."

During the questioning of Shepherd the police rounded up a number of witnesses who have been prominent in testifying before the Coroner's inquest into McClintock's death. They included George F. Osberg, who told the Coroner's jury that he had been consulted by Shepherd about the effects of germs and subtle poisons and the probability of the detection in an autopsy.

Refusing himself for withholding his information during his inquest testimony and lengthy questioning, Falman told the prosecutors that he did not want to be mixed up in the case and that he was ashamed of the fact that he "only got $50 for the letter."

The letter, he said, was taken from his files by Shepherd shortly after McClintock's death. Investigators have been unable to find it.

"If Shepherd had come down and never have thought much about it," Falman said, "I don't pay much attention personally to the correspondence and I did not get suspicious until he handed me $50. I knew something was wrong."

Falman added considerable detail to the story he told the jury yesterday to the effect that Shepherd had taken a course at his school and that shortly afterward three test tubes of typhoid germs, had disappeared.

When Shepherd came for the test tubes, Falman said, "I at once accused him of taking away my test tubes of typhoid germs. He just laughed and said, 'I'll take care of you well later on.' I never thought any more about the incident until the newspapers told of the inquiry into McClintock's death."

Regarding conversations, he said he had with Shepherd, Falman said "Shepherd wanted to know whether the germs could be introduced into a person's system by hypodermic inoculation. I told him germs mixed with sugar water, especially as in articles of food conditions would be likely to be favorable to their culture."

When Shepherd was brought before him, Dr. Falman immediately made the inquiry as to whether the germs and had been accused of having taken the three tubes of typhoid germs. Falman asserted positively in Shepherd's presence that he was the man who had paid $50 for the letter of inquiry sent to the school.

As a climax to charges by Harry Olson, Chief Justice of the Municipal Court, who instigated the Coroner's investigation of McClintock's death, that private detectives were harassing witnesses in the inquiry, State's Attorney Crowe ordered the arrest of John Jones, principal of a detective agency. Prosecutors said Jones had been acting as Shepherd's bodyguard and the detectives who brought Shepherd from his home expected to find Jones there. He was not located.

Timepiece Suggested for the Purpose Awarded to College in Iowa.

The tower clock which won highest award and a special bronze medal at the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia in 1876, which had been suggested to replace the uncertain timepiece now on the city hall last month after its owner, Dudley F. Fassoldt of Albany, N. Y., had offered it to the institution providing it with the most suitable home, will have a home in the Campanile Memorial Tower to be erected on Iowa State Teachers' College campus at Cedar Falls next year, it was announced yesterday.

The city hall clock ceased to function properly during the war and has stopped and started capriciously ever since. President Kinney of the Board of Public Service will have the clock continue to rely on personal timepieces in order to keep appointments.

The clock was constructed by Charles Fassoldt, pioneer clockmaker, and operated four dials of any size up to 100 feet across, setting the hands every half-minute and neither losing nor gaining 10 seconds per year.

Robbers Force Man INTO AUTO, GET $550

Brother of Saloonkeeper Held Up as He Enters With Money for Cashing Checks.

Three robbers captured Timothy J. Sullivan as he entered his brother's saloon at 2033 North Broadway at noon today with $550 to be used in cashing workmen's checks, and forced him to go with them.

They stopped Harry Stovell, chauffeur for Joseph Mathis, president of the Mathis Metals Co., 2111 North Broadway, who was driving past in Mathis' car, and at the points of revolvers ordered him to drive them and Sullivan from the scene.

When the car reached an alley off Glasgow avenue near Montgomery street, Stovell was ordered to turn in it and the robbers, who were then took the $550 from Sullivan. They made him and Stovell leave the car, which was then locked, the robbers pocketing the keys.

"Beat it," they commanded. The robbers ran, and the victims hailed a taxicab, returning to the scene of the holdup. Detectives set out at once in pursuit of the holdup men, but found a blind trail. The saloon is owned by Robert T. Sullivan.

tach to this action because Senators and Representatives of the Legislature are peculiarly in touch with the people of their State."

Chairman Cummings of the Judiciary Committee at this point put into the record a telegram from the Detroit Union League Club expressing confidence that a great majority of the Republicans of Michigan and the nation endorsed the action of the President in resubmitting the nomination.

Pepper, resuming, took exception to the contention of the majority of the committee that the President had exceeded his authority in resubmitting the nomination.

"The Senate must consider this as a new executive act," he said, "and must proceed to consider it."

Telegram on Qualifications. Declaring Warren had "won his spurs in active practice as a lawyer in his home community, in time becoming an outstanding figure in his State," Pepper read a telegram from Walter S. Foster, president of the Michigan Bar Association, stating that "lawyers in Michigan are delighted at the statements that have been made questioning the ability and experience" of Warren.

Warren is "eminently fitted" for the Attorney-Generalship, the telegram said.

Another telegram from 400 members of the Bar Association of Detroit urged Warren's confirmation. Judge Clyde Webster, Circuit Judge of Detroit, telegraphed that Warren was a "brilliant and able lawyer, in every way qualified."

W. F. Connolly, former Democratic national committeeman for Michigan, urged Warren's confirmation "in the interest of clean government and political fairness."

Senator Pepper declared Warren's integrity never had been impeached, and that the fundamental question was whether he had obtained such a slant of mind in favor of big business as to make him unfaithful to the trust of Attorney-General. This question Senator Pepper answered in the negative.

TENANTS OF WOMAN

ATTEND HER FUNERAL

Homage Paid to Mrs. Annie Laurie Bradley by Persons She Had Befriended.

Tenants and former tenants of Mrs. Annie Laurie Bradley, the "Landlady Bountiful" who had kept their rents down, nursed them in illness and denied herself care to buy Christmas gifts for their children, did not forget their benefactor yesterday when the time came to pay their last homage at her funeral.

About a third of the assemblage of 75 or more persons who attended the services at her home, 1618 North Euclid avenue, were her renters who reside in her 12 residences and flats. Most of the flowers which banked the casket were from these same persons, and four of the six pallbearers were tenants, some of whom had occupied her property for 20 years.

Others Had Visited the Home. The funeral attendance, however, represented only a small percentage of the numbers who had visited the home since her death. She died early Tuesday morning after a long illness culminating in pneumonia. She was 82 years old and until about two years ago managed her property herself, looking after the welfare of her tenants and steadfastly refusing to increase rents lest it might deprive some of her children of comforts they might otherwise enjoy. And there never was a ban on children in Mrs. Bradley's property. The more her tenants had the better she liked them.

Mrs. Bradley never had a child of her own, but reared 13 in all, 11 of them her nieces and nephews whom she took into her home when some of them were babies. Her nephew, two nieces and a brother, Guy Kellogg of Allen, Neb., were present yesterday, but the others, who are scattered in various states from New York to Panama were unable to return.

Funeral Services Brief. The funeral services, which were conducted by the Rev. F. B. Bartlett of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, were brief, comprising only the reading of psalms, prayer and the singing of two hymns. Burial was at Valhalla Cemetery, beside the body of her husband, Richard Bradley, a former court stenographer, who died in 1918.

The pallbearers were Edward Tatum, 4818 St. Louis avenue; Charles M. Green, 4866 Cote Brilliante avenue; A. M. Gilbert, 1426 Arlington avenue; and Paris E. Osborn, 1618 North Euclid, all of whom are tenants, and Charles Johnson, 6118 North Market street, and Edward Handorf, 4713 Easton avenue, both old friends of the lady.

Symphony Orchestra Concludes Regular Season With Program of Wagner's Works.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

ONE of the items in a questionnaire submitted to the audience yesterday afternoon at the Odeon, during the Symphony Orchestra's all-Wagner concert, was this: "Is an annual Wagner program welcome to you?" By all means; but if the benefits are to be as profitable as possible, future concerts of the sort should be better contrived, directed and performed than this farewell offering of the orchestra's regular season.

On paper, the program was adeptly selected to illustrate the many-sided genius of the creator of music drama. For beginning, there was the Prelude to "The Mastersingers," which remains a marvel ever new of science, tenderness, ratiocination and pomp. Next came the soliloquy of Hans Sachs from the same opera, "I had Made All the World's Mad." It is true that the text is one of those refractory lumps of ore which not even the order of Wagner's inspiration could smelt; he might as well have composed Kant's discourse on the categorical imperative. But it is a famous number, representative of the master's style in arioso.

Final to "Die Walkure." The March of the Knights of the Holy Grail, from "Parsifal" is one of Wagner's stately and purest exploits; the Prelude and Liebestod from "Tristan und Isolde" exhibit him at the climax of emotional eloquence; he wrote nothing more dramatic than the Ride of the Valkyrs in "Die Walkure"; and the finale of that work, with its duet, Wotan's farewell, and the magic fire music, is not only an overwhelming feat of dramatic composition, but a passage which St. Louisans would probably never hear except through the orchestra's enterprise.

Mme. Julia Claussen, though nominally a mezzo-soprano, was an excellent choice to sing the soprano music of Isolde in the Liebestod and of Brunnhilde in the finale of "Die Walkure." She is artistic to the fingertips, intelligent and emotional; while her voice pealed forth in strength and comeliness. Arthur Middleton, engaged for the Hans Sachs aria and the Wotan dialogue, had not memorized the music; and his singing lost half of its effect through his reading it from score. What he can do in expressive song was shown in his encore, an exceptionally attractive version of the "Evening Star" aria from "Tannhauser," which he knew by heart.

Accompanying Singers. Mr. Ganz, who has an erudite command of pianoforte literature, is at his best in directing accompaniments for pianists. He is less successful with singers. A faulty sense of dynamic proportion yesterday permitted the orchestra at times quite to submerge even Mme. Claussen's spacious voice.

As for the orchestral numbers, the Knights of the Holy Grail trudged as if on fallen arches in a heavy-footed performance of their procession; while the Ride of the Valkyrs brought forward some of the most raucous and stereotyped brass playing, particularly in the tuba, that we have ever endured. Nevertheless, this music has indelible stamina, and one of the largest audiences of the season departed happy if weary. Mme. Claussen's extra, "Trauma," a study for a poem of Mathilde Wesendonck, gave particular pleasure. Except for tomorrow's popular concert, tonight's repetition of the Wagner program will be the orchestra's last appearance in St. Louis until next fall. It leaves Monday morning for a tour of three weeks.

BABY AWARDED TO PARENTS BY COURT

16-Months-Old Son of Electrician Had Been Under Care of East St. Louis Couple.

William Dowling, 16 months old, who for half his life had been Oliver James Miller Jr., of East St. Louis, today laughed and played and gazed in puzzled wonderment upon his five brothers and sisters, while his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dowling of 2732 Madison street, to whom he was returned by Judge Cook in the East St. Louis City Court yesterday, looked on.

Judge Cook ordered the baby given to his parents after their showing that he had been placed by his mother with Mr. and Mrs. Oliver James Miller, 301A Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, last June at a time when Mrs. Dowling was mentally irresponsible from illness; and that her action had been without the father's knowledge or consent.

There had been no legal adoption and after the mother's return to health and a long search for the discovery of the child, the Dowlings claimed their baby in the court. Was Adversely for Adoption. Death had taken from Mrs. Miller her own two babies. When she saw an advertisement of an infant for adoption in the Post-Dispatch last summer, she answered it. A few days later the Dowling baby was taken to her. She and her husband learned to love it as their own. When the Dowlings appeared and demanded the child, the Millers refused to give it up. The father, who is an electrician, told the court that he had been absent from home three months last year during the illness of Mrs. Dowling, although he was a frequent visitor there among the children. When he missed Baby William, he said, the mother's reply was that a neighbor was caring for him. After his wife's recovery of her health and his return home, he said, she confessed she had left the LOS ANGELES, March 14.—Lucille Rickson, "baby film star" of 1923, when she was 16, said to have been the youngest leading woman of the screen, died here yesterday after a long illness. Her mother died last month.

The young woman was one of the "baby stars" brought to the front by the "Wampas," an organization of motion picture publicity men which annually picks a budding genius for the films. She had numerous engagements in 1924 and then was stricken with an illness, brought about by overwork. Baby Awarded to Parents. After hearing the father's story the court awarded the parents their child. It directed that the Dowlings pay $175 to Mrs. Miller for her care of the baby. Mrs. Dowling grew hysterical and almost swooned when the court announced its decision. Her friends crowded about her and her husband with joyful congratulations. In another corner of the courtroom Mrs. Miller, clasping the baby to her breast, sobbed pitifully. Her husband was almost equally heartbroken at the decision of the law. That is how little William Dowling happens to be surrounded today by two brothers and three sisters that he has never known.

Jury Returns Verdict in Case of Millionaire Hotel Owner After Deliberating About an Hour.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 14.—W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire New York hotel owner, and Robert F. Lee, Chicago lawyer, were acquitted last night of conspiracy to defame Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes.

The jury returned a verdict for the 73-year-old defendant after deliberating one hour and five minutes. Two ballots showing 11 to 1 acquittal were taken before agreement was reached on the third. Only one ballot was necessary to free the negro.

After the verdict, the last day of the trial and an added thrill in an angry encounter between Mrs. Stokes and Miss Marion L. Murphy, the private secretary, who had been in close attendance on the aged millionaire throughout the five weeks he had been before the bar.

Some Applause at Verdict. Mrs. Stokes was not in the courtroom when the verdict was rendered. A small demonstration of handclapping greeted the verdict, despite the warning of Judge W. M. Gemmill, that he would countenance no outburst. Stokes was highly elated. His face was wreathed in smiles as he thanked the jurors and posed with them for photographers.

"I am surprised; I have nothing else to say," was the comment of Milton D. Smith, Assistant State Attorney, who led the long fight to send the millionaire to the penitentiary for the State alleged, illegally trying to prove his young wife was a member of the notorious Everleigh Club, which flourished in the night life of Chicago for a decade until it was closed 13 years ago.

Stokes told the jurors, "you have given me justice, and I am thankful to you all." In his instructions to the jury Judge Gemmill directed that it disregard past cards read late in the trial by Prosecutor Smith with the inference that they had been sent to Mrs. Stokes, her two children and her mother by Stokes. Alleging that Mrs. Stokes had associated with negroes, the cards were not supported by any further evidence.

Warned of Possible Errors. Judge Gemmill at that time warned the State that it probably had committed a reversible error, and that he might have to set aside a verdict if against the aged defendant. "Mrs. Stokes was not a party to

Foley to Add Billy Quinn to Miller Lineup

Manager of Prospective Soccer Champions Plans Change in Half-Back Line.

By Dent McSkimming.

Billy Foley, manager of the Ben Millers, heirs-apparent to the crown in the St. Louis Soccer League championship race, is considering an experiment in his half-back line in the event his team wins Sunday's game with the Scullins. The Miller must win Sunday to win the title.

While Foley will not admit that he is dissatisfied with the work of Allan Petersen, his center half-back, it is understood that if any change is made it will be at his position. It is said that Foley has obtained the promise of Billy Quinn, now playing with the St. Matthews of the Municipal League, to join the Millers after Sunday's championship match with the Henses at Fairground.

Quinn played center half-back on the old Ben Miller team, which won a national championship for St. Louis in 1920, and last Sunday he played as fine a game against the Henses as he has ever played.

Petersen's only shortcoming, as observed from the sideline, is his inability to pass accurately to his forwards. On the defense he is a vigorous worker and an effective one. He is fast, strong, and he never relaxes in the face of defeat. But, upon obtaining possession of the ball, perhaps after a very brilliant defensive effort, he thinks his team's chances for victory by merely booting ahead, without method, in the general direction of the opponents' goal.

Defense is only a part of the center half-back's varied duties. He has as many opportunities to initiate an attack as the center forward, and when he does not quickly perceive openings and pass accurately to his forward he loses at least 25 per cent of his effectiveness.

Players Need Practice.

This lack of judgment in passing is also found in other St. Louis half-backs. The great demand for haste is probably responsible, although a lack of week-day practice (of which there is virtually none whatever in this city) has had a damaging influence.

Well-conceived feeding of forwards has always been one of Billy Quinn's strong points, and it is believed that he would add great strength to the Millers, especially in a game against an Eastern team, where the brunt of the battle rests with the half-backs.

Hillyards Oppose Washburn College For Basket Title

St. Joseph Five Yesterday Eliminated K. C. A. C. in National A. A. U. Tourney.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 14.—The Hillyard basketball team of St. Joseph, Mo., and the Washburn College quintet of Topeka, Kan., met here tonight for the 1925 national A. A. U. championship.

The Hillyards became finalists in the tournament which began here last Monday with 32 entries from throughout the nation, by defeating the Kansas City Athletic Club team, 19 to 14, last night, while Washburn eliminated the Monon A. C. of Lafayette, Ind., 45 to 23, in the semifinals.

For the first time in five years Kansas City is without a representative in the finals of the tournament. The contest tonight, however, will be more or less a home affair, as the contenders came from cities less than 75 miles away.

The Hillyards, in battling through the tourney, wrecked both of Kansas City's favorites, putting out the Schoelles, local champions, in the third round before eliminating the Kansas City A. C.

Washburn College, leading in the Kansas State conference, met and defeated the Ke-Nash-A team of Kenosha, Wis. The Pastime Roasting A. C. of Louisville, Ky., and St. Phillips A. C. of Chicago, in leading up to the triumph over the Monon quintet.

CONTINENTAL DEAL DESCRIBED AT OIL LEASE TRIAL

E. Humphreys and Ex-Senator Thomas Tell of Sale of 33,000,000 Barrels Through Sinclair.

CONTRACT SIGNED BY H. H. OSLER

This Transaction, Government Claims, Made Possible Payment of $240,000 Bribe to Fall.

By ELLIOT L. THURSTON.

Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 14.—New Harry F. Sinclair and four prominent oil men met three times in New York and arranged to buy 33,333,333 barrels of oil from Col. E. Humphreys and E. H. Humes, brother of Vice President Humes, and owner of a quarter interest in the Humphreys companies, has been related at the trial of the Sinclair case.

The testimony of the Government, seeking to prove its charge that this deal made possible the payment of a bribe of at least $240,000 to former Secretary of the Interior Fall, his lease of Teapot Dome to Sinclair.

The courtroom was crowded and tense yesterday as Col. Humphreys, a giant, genial figure, gray of hair, and of eye—a popular hero in the western country—told how he and Blackmer, chairman of the board of the Mid-West Refining Co., a Standard of Indiana subsidiary, first approached him about buying oil from Humphreys, Humes and company.

They met in Humphreys' Broadway office in November, 1921.

Humphreys wired to former Senator Charles S. Thomas of Colorado, his friend and attorney for 20 years, to come on from Denver to the trial.

Thomas also took the stand and testified each step of the transaction.

Meeting of Oil Men.

On Nov. 15, both witnesses said, attended a luncheon at 42 Broadway, at which Sinclair, Blackmer, Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, and James E. Humes, who then was president of the Sinclair Oil and Gas Co., another Standard of Indiana subsidiary, were present.

Details of the 33,333,333-barrel purchase were talked of, and the day after met in Blackmer's office at the Hotel Vanderbilt, both witnesses said, and when Thomas, counsel, was about to reduce the matter to writing, Blackmer spoke up and announced the contract was to name the Continental Trading Co. of London as the purchaser, instead of Blackmer, Sinclair or the others.

"I've never heard of that company," Humphreys remarked, and told how, when he and Thomas, O'Neil and Humes, it was all right, and that they would guarantee the Continental.

Oiler Signed Contract.

The next day H. H. Osler, another factor, appeared and signed the Continental and signed the contract for the purchase of 33,333,333 barrels. A second contract also was signed at the same time, it was testified, whereby Sinclair and Humes jointly agreed to purchase 200,000 barrels of oil after completion of the first contract.

One of the significant features of this situation, as disclosed in direct testimony, is that of the purchasers of the oil Sinclair is the only one in this country, and he is not expected to testify when called to the witness stand.

The Government contends that others have fled, for Blackmer, O'Neil and Humes have been permitted to submit to letters rogatory permitting their testimony to be taken.

Blackmer, said to be looking into oil, made attempts were made by the Government to interrogate him in Chicago, and by the time the case was in Africa, hunting lions, he was still there.

$2,000,000 Book Profit.

The Government charges that the deal never went to the Continental, which is alleged to have been a dummy, but it was ordered shipped to the Sinclair and Standard Oil companies, the Sinclair Oil Purchasing Co. in which Humes was interested, and in Prairie, the Standard subsidiary.

As a result of the transaction, the Continental showed a profit of some $2,000,000, it is alleged, and the fact that Humes sold to Continental at

SENATE RETURNS LAUSANNE PACT TO COMMITTEE

This Action Taken After Borah Is Convinced Treaty Would Fail if Brought to Vote.

ISLE OF PINES TREATY APPROVED

Senate Delays Action on World Court Under Agreement Making It Special Order for Dec. 17

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The Senate has returned to committee the Lausanne pact to re-establish diplomatic and commercial relations with Turkey.

Prior to its decision last yesterday on the Lausanne treaty, after the administration had redoubled its efforts to obtain ratification at this session, the Senate ratified the treaty recognizing Cuban sovereignty over the Isle of Pines. As approved by a vote of 63 to 14, the Cuban treaty carried only minor reservations.

The World Court question also has been definitely put over until the next session under an agreement of yesterday to make it a special order for Dec. 17.

The action of Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee in moving for the return to his committee of the Lausanne treaty resulted from a canvass of the Senate situation which convinced him that the necessary two-thirds vote for ratification could not be obtained.

Democrats Oppose Treaty.

After the pact was recommended, Secretary Kellogg went to the Senate and urged its ratification. Borah on the subject, but the Senator was understood today still to hold the view that the virtual solid opposition of the Democrats would result only in rejection of the treaty if it were pressed.

The administration has stressed that with action deferred on the treaty until the December session the treaty might prove embarrassing both to American residents in Turkey and those trading with that country.

Reed Opposes Pines Pact.

Ratification of the Isle of Pines treaty with Cuba was opposed by Senator Reed of Missouri on the ground that the island, if allowed to slip from the control of the United States, might some day be used by a foreign power as a base for an airplane attack on this country.

Reed asserted that the United States had at least an equitable claim to the island and that, rather than see it surrendered, he would favor a handsome payment to Cuba for a quitclaim deed.

GERMANY MAY ENTER LEAGUE WITHOUT SPECIAL FAVORS

Council Adopts Note Saying She May Come In On Basis of Absolute Equality.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, March 14.—Germany may enter the League of Nations on a basis of absolute equality with the other members without any special favors. This was the formal decision of the League of Nations council today in adopting the text of the reply to be sent to Germany concerning the latter's entrance into the league, decided on in principle March 10.

Concerning the economic measures provided for by the covenant, the council emphasized that any reservation on this subject would undermine the very basis of the League of Nations.

$1.50 a barrel, while Continental sold to the Sinclair-Standard interest at $1.75, making a seeming profit of 25 cents a barrel.

Owen D. Roberts and Arlee Pomeroy, the government counsel, waived a legal battle all morning to force into the record their evidence that the $2,000,000 was converted into Liberty Bonds and at least $240,000 of these same Liberty bonds, traced by serial numbers turned up finally in Fall's bank accounts in New Mexico, Texas and Colorado. But every asset lawyers, eight of whom were on hand.

Judge Delays Ruling.

The question of admitting to evidence the bank records of Fall was taken under advisement here today by Federal Judge Kennedy.

"The Court regrets that the question of evidence, which seems so important to both sides should revolve about such narrow questions of law," said Judge Kennedy, in reserving his decision as to whether the Government will be allowed to use bank figures in its effort to connect Fall and Sinclair in financial transactions will be held up until Monday. There was no session today.

PLANS FOR NEW MEETING ON ARMS LIMITATION REVIVED

President Indicates Conference in Washington This Summer or Fall Is a Possibility—Awaits Word From Geneva

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—President Coolidge has revived his plans for another arms conference in Washington. With Secretary Kellogg he will determine whether conditions are now auspicious for asking the other nations if they will send representatives to such a meeting.

The collapse of the League of Nations disarmament program suddenly removed obstacles which the President felt prevented invitation to this government to a conference. He did not wish to appear to compete with the League. All he awaits now is word that the European effort is definitely abandoned.

From an outline of the President's hopes, given to White House callers yesterday, a second arms limitation conference this summer or fall seems a probability. President Coolidge first wants further limitation of naval armaments. He would be delighted, he told his visitors, to see something done about land armaments as well.

There was an obvious reluctance on the part of the President to associate land and naval armaments in a single conference, much as he would like to assist in bringing about reduction of both armies and navies. He pointed out, according to callers, that the United States has made its reduction in land armaments since the war and has nothing to offer in that respect.

No Desire to Coerce.

Several European nations have reduced their armies and, like the United States have no concessions they can make. Mr. Coolidge is anxious that this country shall not be placed in the position of attempting to coerce nations with large armies, such as France, and the United States have no concessions they can make. Mr. Coolidge is anxious that this country shall not be placed in the position of attempting to coerce nations with large armies, such as France, and the United States have no concessions they can make.

It is the President's opinion, based on Geneva dispatches, that the league proposal for a disarmament conference has been dropped, but he is not certain of it. If it has been dropped, he informed his callers, it is an important change in the situation and may have a decided and favorable result in relation to the American proposal.

Washington is President Coolidge's choice as the ideal location for such a meeting. "If he agrees that, with future developments, some other place might be preferable, but he thinks the atmosphere of Washington, where the first arms conference was held, was desirable."

EDUCATION APPROPRIATIONS BILL SENT TO ENGROSSMENT

Measure Providing $6,285,081 Exclusive of Estimates for New Buildings, Passes in House.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 14.—Proposed appropriations for the State educational institutions cleared the first barrier when the House today engrossed the bill without slashing any of the items. The measure will come up again in a few days for passage by the House.

As engrossed the bill carries a total of $6,285,081 for the University of Missouri School of Mines, the five State Teachers Colleges and Lincoln University for negroes. The amount is $1,461,400 less than the total of $7,746,481 in the bill as originally introduced.

However this does not involve a slashing of the appropriations for $1,461,400 in building and equipment items in the original bill which were transferred to building appropriation bill which will come up later in the House. A transfer of the building items from the educational appropriation bill was made in order to consolidate all appropriations for buildings for all State institutions in one measure.

Appropriations for the various schools in the educational appropriation bill as engrossed today are as follows: University of Missouri, $3,083,203; Missouri School of Mines, $631,000; Kirkville Teachers College, $321,400; Maryville Teachers College, $423,400; Cape Girardeau Teachers College, $431,400; Springfield Teachers College, $320,850; Warrensburg Teachers College, $439,500; Lincoln University, $224,700.

Oppose Teaching of Evolution.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 14.—The Tennessee Legislature went on record yesterday as being opposed to the teaching of the theory of evolution in public schools and colleges of the State when the Senate approved a bill to that effect which previously had been passed by the House.

Pero Favors Tena-Arica Award.

LIMA, Peru, March 14.—Both houses of Congress have passed resolutions supporting the favorable attitude toward the Tena-Arica award of President Coolidge expressed by the President's declaration to Congress in his message to Washington. Congress also pledged its support to President Coolidge in fulfilling the terms of the Tena-Arica decision.

Helped Draft Texas Constitution.

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 14.—W. P. McLean Sr., 30 years old, former Texas legislator, jurist, and one of the first members of the Texas Railroad Commission, died at his home here yesterday. He assisted in drafting the Constitution of Texas.

DENIES JUGGLING BOOKS FOR UFLAND

Accountant Testifies He Was Hired by Jack Trauss, Bankrupt Jeweler.

Explaining entries in the books of the bankrupt Trauss Bros. Jewelry Co. to the satisfaction of Bankruptcy Referee, Colles yesterday caused L. John Himes, a public accountant, almost as much trouble as that experienced by Jack Trauss, head of the concern, during a similar effort at a previous hearing.

Himes, who has offices in the Arcade Building, is the accountant whom Jack Trauss, in a previous testimony, declared had been hired by Jacob W. Ufland, president of the defunct National Jewelry Co., Arcade Building, and the Milton Watch Co., New York, to investigate the books of the Trauss Co. Ufland disappeared last November owing approximately $600,000, more than $50,000 for which Jack Trauss claims to be due his concern.

Denies Ufland Hired Him.

Himes testified yesterday that he had been introduced to the Trauss brothers by Ufland, for whom he did some work, but denied that Ufland had hired him to make a report of the Trauss Co.'s books. Jack Trauss engaged him, Himes testified, and paid him $95 for the work. Trauss, and not Ufland, supplied the necessary data for the accounting, Himes said. Ufland was present on several occasions while he was employed at the Trauss store, Himes testified, but issued no instructions.

The accountant got into difficulties when he attempted to explain a series of transactions between the Trauss Co. and Ufland. The books showed two accounts Trauss paid on for $17,000 and another for $11,625. Other entries charged Ufland with an additional $17,000 debt, and the Trauss concern with a similar sum due Ufland.

The transaction had been explained to him by Jack Trauss and Ufland, Himes said, but cross-questioning failed to entirely clarify the matter for the Referee and attorneys in the case. The basis of the deal had been the transfer of pearls from Trauss Bros. to Ufland, Himes said, but he was unable to state whether the pearls had been two necklaces, mentioned in previous testimony, which the Trauss brothers testified they obtained from their wives and sold to Ufland. Questioning finally diverted to other matters, leaving considerable doubt as to whether Ufland owes Trauss Bros. $17,000 or $28,625 on that particular transaction.

Two Entries Explained.

Himes testified that two other entries in the books, one an account due from H. Wilson amounting to $7029, and a second showing $5000 due from Morris Singer, a diamond merchant who is also bankrupt, had been placed on the books at the direction of Jack Trauss. At a previous hearing Trauss testified these entries had been made at Ufland's direction.

Perils of the Sea Force Ambassador to Resign

MR. AND MRS. JOHN W. RIDDLE.

John W. Riddle recently resigned as American Ambassador to the Argentine Republic because his wife could not stand an ocean voyage. Her nervous condition is the result of three sea disasters in her experience. She was on the Lusitania when it was torpedoed. On a later voyage the ship on which she was a passenger was burned at a pier in Norway, and on a third ocean trip the rudder of the vessel jammed and the ship turned turtle.

"COTTON BELT" TO BE RUN AS INDEPENDENT SYSTEM

No Change Contemplated in Management or Policies, President Announces.

The Cotton Belt Railroad lines will continue to be operated as an independent system, Daniel Upthegrove, president of the St. Louis & Southwestern Railway Co., announced today upon his return from New York, where the deal by which the Rock Island acquired control of the Cotton Belt stock was announced.

"The Rock Island has acquired a dominant interest in the stock of the St. Louis & Southwestern Railway lines," President Upthegrove said, adding: "But the Cotton Belt will continue to be operated as an independent railway system and there will be no changes in its management or policies. All officers and employees will continue in their present positions."

PERSHING REACHES NEW YORK

"Feeling Better, but Not Entirely Well," He Tells Reporters.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Gen. John J. Pershing, returning from the centennial celebration of the battle of Ayacucho in Peru, which he attended as Ambassador Extraordinary, arrived yesterday from Havana on the battleship Utah. He appeared a little drawn as he stepped with Rear Admiral Plunkett, from the tug Luka to the pier where Major-General Charles P. Summerall and a reception committee of army officers were waiting.

The General said he still felt the effects of his illness in Havana and was "not entirely well, but felt much better." He spoke with enthusiasm about South America.

"ANOTHER ROOSEVELT NEEDED"

Glenn Frank, Editor, Says Western World Needs a Leader.

Glenn Frank, editor of Century Magazine, and a former Missourian, said there was hope for civilization, in a lecture delivered last night at Principia Academy. He declared that the Western world was ready for a spiritual renaissance and needed only a leader.

This leader, Frank said, must be a man combining the talents of a Francis Bacon and a Billy Sunday. He must have great force of intellect and demagogic appeal to the masses. Roosevelt was such a man, Frank believes, but another like him has not yet appeared.

Daylight Saving for Six Months.

(Copyright, 1925.)

LONDON, March 14.—The House of Commons yesterday passed the second reading of the summer time bill by 289 votes to 62. The bill provides for daylight saving time from the first Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October, about six months, instead of the four months, as hitherto. This is to be a permanent schedule. The Government will confer with France and Belgium in an effort to get an international agreement for a uniform daylight saving time.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

Johnny Chuck Hears a Rumor

Alas! Alas! 'Tis true, I fear. That rumor finds a ready ear.

Johnny CHUCK was obstinate. Polly Chuck was obstinate.

Johnny had said that he was going down on the Green Meadows over toward the Big River, and he went. Polly Chuck had said she was going up to the Old Orchard and she went. They had had a most unpleasant falling out over the matter. Yes, sir, they had.

"If Polly Chuck thinks I care because she wouldn't come along with me she is greatly mistaken," muttered Johnny Chuck, as he made his way across the Green Meadows. "I don't care a fig of my tail. And if she thinks that I will follow her up to the Old Orchard she has made a second mistake. If she wants to live up in the Old Orchard she can live there alone." My, but Johnny was cross!

Polly Chuck wasn't cross. She chuckled to herself as she headed for the Old Orchard. "Johnny thinks he is going to stay down on the Green Meadows, but he isn't I know him," said Polly to herself. "He'll stay down there a while, and then when he finds that I really meant what I said and am going to stay in the Old Orchard he'll come back. It will do him good to be away for a while. It will do me good not to see him around all the time. There is such a thing as two people seeing too much of each other."

For a week Johnny Chuck wandered about on the Green Meadow. He went way over to the Big River.

But somehow he was discontented. Nothing was as he had thought it would be. There wasn't much sweet clover over there, and what there was somehow didn't taste as sweet as that he used to find up in the Old Orchard. He did his best not to think of the Old Orchard and not to wonder what Polly Chuck was doing up there. But despite all he could do he did think about the Old Orchard. He wondered if Polly Chuck had gone back to that old home under an apple tree in the far corner of the Old Orchard, or if she had dug a new home in some other part of the Old Orchard.

"I don't care what she's done," grumbled Johnny. But he did care. If he hadn't have cared he wouldn't have kept thinking about it.

Then one morning, just as he was poking his nose out of an old hole where he had spent the night, he heard voices in the trees over his head. One was the voice of Sammy Jay. The other was the voice of his cousin, Blacky the Crow.

"I hear Johnny Chuck and Polly Chuck have separated," said Blacky. "I saw Johnny down here on the Green Meadows yesterday, but I didn't see anything of Polly."

"She's up in the Old Orchard," replied Sammy. "I see her every day. She seems very well satisfied up there. Yesterday I discovered another Chuck up there. I don't know where he came from, but he certainly is a big, handsome fellow. He seemed to be very much interested in Polly Chuck. They are not exactly friends yet, but I guess it won't be long before they are. I noticed that Polly watched him whenever she thought he wasn't looking. He certainly is a handsome Chuck, and worth looking at."

You should have seen Johnny Chuck as he listened to this. It was all he could do to keep from rushing right out and saying that he didn't believe a word of it. But not for the world would he have had Blacky the Crow and Sammy Jay know that he cared. So he kept quiet until they had flown away.

Potatoes O'Brien

Paras, slice lengthwise and cut into dice raw potatoes to make one quart. Rinse, dry and fry until browned in deep fat not enough to brown a bit of bread in a minute—325 degrees F. In the meantime fry a medium sized onion, minced with four tablespoons minced green pepper, in butter, stir into the fried diced potatoes and dust with salt.

Traces Back the Child Crime Wave

By SAM HELLMAN.
"DID you ever see anything more silly than this," remarks the wife, slamming down the paper.
"What you been reading?" I inquire. "A sale of $89.00 dresses at $4.89?"

Here's a woman," goes on the misses, "that says them Mother Goose rhymes is ruining children and that they should oughta be cut out."

"She's right," I come back, feeling all set for an argument. "What do you know about it?" snaps the frau.

"All they is to know," I shouts back, "and a lot more'n that."

"What," inquires Kate, "is wrong pound of headcheese at one shot?"

"If you know what you're talking about," suggests the frau, "you can go on; if you don't you'll go on anyways."

"I sure will," I come back. "This is a subject I've made a study about and I'm full of it."

"You musta made a study of Scotch, too," remarks Kate, "if that's the way study affects you."

"Getting back to this Muffet frill," says I, "the facts that a spider came and set down beside her also shows you that she swiped them curds and wheys when her ma wasn't looking. You don't have spiders in no dining rooms and the chances is that Clara—"

"Who's Clara?" interrupts the misses.

"Clara Muffet," I explains. "She was the daughter of Gabe and Lizzie Muffet of Simp-under-the-Tyne in England. You know she was a real person, didn't you?"

"Do tell?" says the wife.

"What I was going to go on and remark," I adds, "was that Clara musta have taken the grub she hooked outta the pantry down in the cellar or up in the attic where there is plenty of spiders."

"Why couldn't there have been a spider in the dining room?" cross-examines Kate.

"Not likely," I returns, "but for the sake of arguing let's say it was like you says. That would prove that Mrs. Muffet was a rotten housekeeper. Do you think it's a good idea to teach little children that their mothers are the kind of housekeepers that sweep the dirt under the rugs and let spiders spin."

"Not by a jagfall," I tells her. "Tuffet is bad enough by itself, but when you tie it up with curds and wheys you're going a little bit beyond the limit."

"How did they happen to write it for children?" asks the frau.

"Well," I explains, "when that things was first written on the night of Aug. 11, 1267, the word 'tuffet' had a different meaning from what it's got now. It was a pretty decent sort of a word then, but today—really, I don't like to talk about it. Besides, think of some of the other things in that rhyme!"

"Such as?" Kate wanted to know.

"You admits, don't you?" I continues, "that a kid ought to be taught decent table manners?"

"Yes," says she, "even if you wasn't."

"All right," I goes on. "Instead of sitting at the table this Muffet gal sneaks off into a corner of the room with a mess of curds and wheys that she probably swiped out of the pantry, and—"

"It don't say anything like that in the poem," cut in the wife.

"Perhaps not," I admits, "but can you imagine any mother giving her child curds and wheys at the same time? Would you give a baby of yours a chunk of sausage and a webs on the picture frames. As a woman of the world, I ask you?"

"Anything else wrong about that rhyme?" asks the frau with a touch of the sarcastic.

"Everything else about it," I replies. "Did you ever see a spider sit? Never. Like Shakespeare says in 'Paradise Lost.' The spider spineth but he sitteth not." That leaves you the choice of either making Mother Goose or Shakespeare out a liar with your children. Which'd you choose?"

"If I had any children," comments the misses, "they wouldn't have to go no further than their father to find a first-class liar."

"Aln't you believing that stuff I been telling you about the Muffet braid?" I demands indignantly.

"Finish first," suggests the frau, "so I can tell you all at once what I think of you and your stuff."

"There ain't much more to tell," says I. "According to statistics gathered by the Society for the Suppression of Expression eleven and one-eighth per cent of the kids that steal jam outta the pantry, forty-six per cent of the cases of indigestion caused by overeating on curds and wheys and eleven per cent of the nightmares enjoyed by children between the ages of six and eleven and three months dreaming about spiders has been caused by that Miss Muffet rhyme, not to mention the girls that have gone to the dogs by insisting on finding out what a tuffet was."

"That's sad," agrees the frau. "How would you have the poem read?"

"Something like this," I suggests: "Little Miss Muffet sat at a table, Not eating as much as she was able. You should never stuff, says Clara Muffet, And never go near an awful tuffet."

"But," says Kate, "you is using that word 'tuffet' in it."

"It's all right," I assures, "in the sense I'm using it."

"Did you say 'sense'?" sneers the wife.

DOOR OPEN TO GERMANY TO PLAY PART CORRESPONDING TO HER POSITION IN WORLD

GENEVA, March 14.—The League of Nations today, in inviting Germany to join the League, and thus extending the hand of fellowship, gave expression to this sentiment:
"The council wishes to express to Germany its sincere wish to see her associated with its labors, and to play in this organization for peace a part corresponding to her position
in the world."

GENEVA, March 14.—Closing
the most important meeting in its history with what is generally admitted to be a constructive move
great significance for future
mony in Europe, the League of Nations council adjourned tonight expressing a sincere wish to Germany associated in its labor by joining the league and to play in the organization of peace a part corresponding to Germany's position in the world.
The council, by voting the above
statement, paid Germany an unprecedented honor, for no country
ever been bid to take a seat
the league and a place around council table. Everybody agrees Germany can have a permanent seat in the council.

Not Exempt From Sanctions.
Today's action represents the most word addressed to Germany
the allies on a basis of perfect equality. Germany here following council proceedings are openly used with the phraseology of the Berlin Government.
Though the document falls to Germany's views that because her antebellum military condition
is exempt from the sanctions fixed by the covenant, the document was expressed tonight
a conciliatory tone of the note
enable Germany to find a road
ing to the league which does involve sacrifice of either her national pride or what she considers to be her national interests.
The next act in the international
the desired climax to which is discovery of the solution to the problem of security, will be at Paris, where many of the statesmen are bound tomorrow
confer with Premier Herriot on problem of a pact of guarantee.

To Tackle Security Plan.
Despite the heavy blow delivered the cause of disarmament by this
the action in the matter of the League, the statesmen apparently started from Geneva with fresh energy to attack the huge problem of security.
The council said tonight that the reason why the protocol is lost
as its present form is considered, is because, apart from desires to have preparation, it includes ideals too advanced for present era.
